

CITY 'MOVES IN' ON TAXICAB MEN

Arrest Violators of New Ordinance After 6 a. m. Today, Is Order

DELAY BOND SECTION

No Action Will be Taken Upon Complete Enforcement Until Judge's Decision

It's moving day for taxicabs. Police Commissioner J. M. Adkins, on authority of City Attorney Frank E. Duncan, who gave his opinion on Judge Edmund S. Clegg's recent decision concerning the validity of the taxicab ordinance, declared Monday afternoon that no taxicabs will be tolerated on the business streets after 6 o'clock Tuesday morning except to pick up or discharge passengers.

$19 and Costs Is Penalty. All members of the police department, according to Adkins, have received orders to immediately arrest the operator of any automobile used for taxicab purposes whose car is parked inside the district bounded on the north by First street, on the south by Fourteenth street, on the east by Detroit avenue and on the west by the Arkansas river. The penalty for violation of the taxicab ordinance is $19 and costs.

Interpreting the ordinance Judge Clegg, before whom taxicab men through their attorney, J. W. Simpson, sought to enjoin the city from enforcing it, expressed a verbal opinion that it is not confiscatory or irregular. He explained that the $5,000 bond required by its terms from taxicab operators might be too high, but gave the city until March 1 to show if such sized bonds can be made.

Adkins contends that $5,000 is not too high for reputable taxicab operators, and that the only class of operators wanted in Tulsa.

Good Ones Can Make Bond.

"Any man of good character and good standing will have no difficulty in obtaining a bond of this size," he declared. "In fact, if his reputation is favorable, he could obtain a bond in virtually any amount he wants." The bond cannot exceed a sum of $5,000, he added.

There are approximately 12,000,000 women engaged in gainful occupations, according to Miss Phillips. There are 325 member clubs of the national organization she represents, located in every state in the union, except Rhode Island, she stated.

Quit 'Enjoying Your Misery,' Is Woman's Advice to Women

Car Service Here
Best in the State,
Bosler, T. S. R., Says

Business women must learn to think for themselves; they must quit "enjoying" their misery; they must develop courage, especially in matters of dress and they must take the initiative and responsibility when necessary. In her speech at the dinner of the Miss Lorna MacLean Phillips of New York, national secretary of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, who made an address at the Kiwanis club luncheon at Hotel Tulsa Monday noon, many local clubwomen were present on invitation of the Kiwanis club to hear Miss Phillips.

Our purpose is to get business and professional women together,

Miss Phillips explained, so their influence in the business world may be greatly increased. I believe the ideal place for women is in the home, making it happy for the men they love, and enjoying the blessings of a family," but she added humorously, "unfortunately, all the really nice men I know are already married."

Women need courage to dress sensibly, she declared. By this she said, meaning in what she illustrated, that a woman should not wear high-heeled shoes when dame fashion had decreed every woman should wear high-heeled shoes. It's not necessary to wear a dinner-gown to one's work. "You don't see business men wearing their old dress suits when they go to their offices in the morning," she explained.

The declared women are not trying to set their sex up in opposition to men, but that they are trying to have more opportunity which better fitted to take their proper places in the business world. "I met the day when the sex question will be entirely left out of business affairs," she said.

DENIES BURGLARY CHARGE

Young Found in Possession of Goods Taken From Residence Arrested.

Pleading not guilty to the charge of burglary, Glen R. Wright, arrested in possession of clothing stolen from 495 East Ninth street January 8, was committed to jail Monday by his assignment by Judge S. C. Maxey, for preliminary hearing Friday.

Wright, who returned Saturday night from Ranger, Texas, admits having the clothes in his possession, but told the court he bought the property from an unidentified man in a North Main street poolhall. Wright's bond was fixed at $3,000.
